Agile Therapeutics to Present at the Biotech Showcase 2011

PRINCETON, N.J. – January 4, 2010 - Agile Therapeutics, a pharmaceutical company focused on developing and commercializing more convenient women's contraceptive products, announced the company will present at the Biotech Showcase 2011 at the Parc 55 Wyndham San Francisco Hotel in San Francisco, CA. Agile's President & CEO, Al Altomari, is scheduled to present an overview of the company on Wednesday, January 12, 2011 at 4:15 pm PT (7:15 pm ET).

"There is a significant unmet need in the women's healthcare product market for more convenient contraceptive options that are safe and easy for patients to use," said Al Altomari, President & CEO of Agile Therapeutics. "I'm pleased to have the opportunity to present an overview of the Phase 3 development work Agile has been doing in the company's low-dose, weekly contraceptive patch, as well as review the rest of our pipeline."

About Agile Therapeutics

Agile Therapeutics is a pharmaceutical development company specializing in women's healthcare products, with an initial focus on providing patients with more options and more convenient methods of hormonal contraception. In addition to Agile's lead, advanced-stage program to develop AG200-15, the company is developing a low-dose, progestin-only contraceptive patch, AG900. Both AG200-15 and AG900 incorporate Agile's proprietary SKINFUSION[™] technology, consisting of an active and peripheral adhesive system that allows stable drug delivery and dependable adhesion over seven days.
